

News Release

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Contact: Lisa Hamm-Greenawalt
Communications & Outreach Manager
Work: 303.321.6363 x218
Cell: 720-971-9460
Email: lhamm@parentpathways.org

Parent Pathways Receives $30,000 from Denver Post Season to Share Program

DENVER – April 21, 2010 –

Parent Pathways, the Denver nonprofit that helps teen parents raise healthy families, has received a $30,000 grant from the Denver Post Season to Share program, President and CEO Susan Carparelli announced today.

The grant covers the parenting training programs that Parent Pathways provides through its Early Learning Center, Florence Crittenton School and Young Fathers Program.

The Denver Post will award grants to Parent Pathways and other recipients at a ceremony April 26.

About Denver Post Season to Share

Denver Post Season to Share, a McCormick Foundation Fund, raised a record $1,688,000 from 7,087 readers, community supporters and corporate philanthropists to awards grants to charities that serve low-income children as well as those who are hungry, homeless or in need of medical care. More information can be found at www.seasontoshare.com.

About Parent Pathways

Parent Pathways is a Denver-based non-profit that empowers struggling teen families to be productive members of the community. Using a holistic and proven approach, Parent Pathways offers a spectrum of wraparound services for the entire teen family, including education, health/wellness services, career guidance and parenting training for pregnant and parenting teen mothers at the Florence Crittenton School; early childhood education for their infants and toddlers at the Qualistar-rated Early Learning Center; and counseling, education and parenting support for teen fathers through the Young Fathers Program. Learn more at www.parentpathways.org.

###